Kindergarten!

Phillies Day occurred on October 3rd and the school was full of lively and animated people. The most spirited fans of them all though, were the... KINDERGAR-TEN! They dressed in red and white to show their love for the Phillies. They sang songs to honor them as well. It was definitely a great day for the kindergarten.

On October 10th, both classes went to Acme to learn about food groups. In the future, the Kindergarten plans to travel to the Fire House because it is Fire Prevention Month. They also plan on going to a museum in the future as well! WOAH! It sure sounds like they have a lot of great events planned.

The Kindergarten is a group of well behaved children and I bet that's why they're going on so many of them!

1ST GRADE!

The 1st graders took an exciting trip to Linvilla Orchards and had a large amount of fun! While there they saw Spooky the Square Pumpkin! After attending the field trip they began writing letters to Spooky. They are finished now and are waiting for Spooky to write back. The first graders also just finished a fun project. For the project the children had to make cardboard cut-outs of themselves.

They then had to decorate the cardboard so that it would fit their personalities. The first graders soon plan to go to the Free Library on 20th and Shunk! I bet they can't wait!

2ND GRADE!

The second grade had their first library trip on October 1st. While there, they borrowed books and enjoyed themselves. They will be visiting the library again throughout the year every 3 weeks! The second grade is also reading a chapter book in class called "The Pumpkin Elf Mystery." It is about a pumpkin elf that visits classes and gives them yummy treats and plays sly tricks. In the classroom, the students work hard and pay attention. So far, it seems that the second graders are going to have an WONDERFUL year!

What's K-8 been up to???

3rd Grade!

Ms. Cappetto's students are learning how to work with graphs and are also learning about algorithms. They are becoming more advanced with addition and subtraction as well. The students are writing and publishing things along with reading both fiction and nonfiction stories. The third grade teachers report that they are doing well in both science and social studies. After they're done all of their hard work, they plan to have a fun Halloween party!

4th Grade!

The fourth graders plan to attend an awesome trip to Medford, New Jersey. There is a farm known as Johnson's Comer Farm that will take the students on a hay ride.

All of the students are looking forward to a fun ride. The fourth graders will also pick popcorn, sweet potatoes and cotton! That sounds exciting to me! I bet the fourth graders are as eager as ever to make it to this wonderful farm.

5th Grade!

The fifth graders are soon going to the American Historical Museum on November 6th 2007. They will do many fun activities to teach them about Pennsylvania and the Swedish history here. The fifth graders, in class, also plan to study archaeological artifacts to learn more about the Vikings. They plan to dress up as Vikings, wear Viking jewelry and play Viking games.

The sixth grade class is looking forward to November. They will be going on their trip to the Wachovia Center to see the Phantoms game. Ms.

Q would like to wish all of her 6th grade students the best of luck this year. She also wants to remind them that anything is possible if they put their mind to it.

Ms. Pandolphi's class will be solving Halloween word problems on October 31st. On November 6th, their landform projects will be due. November 14th is the 6th grade field trip to the Phantoms game. On November 20th, the 6th grade Thanksgiving project will be due. It sounds like they will have a busy autumn! They will also be having a Thanksgiving pie tasting contest. We can't wait to see how their projects turn out!

7th Grade!

In Ms. Caiola's class is busy learning about prepositions. They are also reading a book called "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow"! The book is about the Headless Horseman and how he haunts Ichabod Crane, a school teacher. For social studies, her class is learning about Europe and ALL of its countries. Trust me, there are a lot of them! On October 31st (Halloween Day) Ms. Caiola's class plans to attend the State Penitentiary Prison with Mr. Falcione's class and learn a lot about its prisoners.

In Mr. Falcione's class is busy learning about Primates. They are also learning about Hominids (early humanlike creatures). They even watched a documentary called an "Inconvenient Truth" made by Al Gore to teach them about the dangers of Global Warming. For math, his class is learning about integers (negative and positive numbers) and fractions.
